

Kentucky Woman, Sufferer From Stomach Ills, Quickly Restored

Mrs. Belle Hawkins Uses Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy—“Never Felt Better in My Life.”

Mrs. Belle Hawkins, Eminence, Ky., was a victim of stomach disorders. She took a great deal of treatment and medical attention.

At last she tried Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy and got real results. In a letter telling of her experience, she said:

“I have taken all of the medicine I ordered of you and will say that it has done more good than all the doctors and medicine I ever tried. I don't really think I need any medicine now, as I think I am well. I never felt better in my life. If I ever should need any medicine I know where to get it.”

That is a typical letter, taken as one among the thousands from the users of Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy.

The first dose proves—no long treatment. Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy clears the digestive tract of mucoid secretions and removes poisonous matter. It brings swift relief to sufferers from ailments of the stomach, liver and bowels. Many declare it has saved them from dangerous operations and many are sure it has saved their lives.

Because of the remarkable success of this remedy there are many imitators, so be cautious. Be sure it's MAYR'S. Go to Perry's Drug Store and ask about the wonderful results it has been accomplishing—or send to Geo. H. Mayr, Mfg. Chemist, 154-156 Whiting Street, Chicago, Ill., for free book on stomach ailments and many grateful letters from people who have been restored. Any druggist can tell you of its wonderful effects.

OLDHAM & HARBER

Bell Telephone Bulletins

13-DUPLEX LINE SERVICE

Where two telephone subscribers are served by one line the service they receive is known as “duplex” service. This class of service is for small users of the telephone and neither party on the line is expected to monopolize it. When one telephone on a “duplex” line is in use the line is “busy,” and the other telephone cannot be used for either incoming or outgoing messages.

When you call a “duplex” or party line telephone and the operator tells you “the line is busy,” it does not necessarily mean that the number you ask for is “busy.” The other telephone may be in use and in that case “the line is busy.” If you subscribe to “duplex” or party line telephone service do not answer your telephone until the bell stops ringing. If you remove the receiver off the hook while the bell is ringing it opens a circuit and the bell on the other telephone on your line also rings. This is one of the reasons why “duplex” telephones sometimes ring when the other party is wanted.

If “duplex” subscribers would be careful not to remove the receiver while the bell is ringing a cause of annoyance, over which we have no control, would be removed.

A RECURRENT PUZZLE.

It would appear that about the last thing with which one could charge an American citizen would be a lack of ingenuity and originality. Forward looking, quick of mind, essentially inventive, the American is keen to resent any such apparently unwarranted imputation. In one respect, however, he has shown himself singularly hidebound and imitative.

Whether it be an inherent though unadmitted conservatism or a strong devotion to deep rooted habit and prejudice, the American has, at all times and in every clime of this broad country, displayed a tendency to borrow a name by which shall be known the town in which he takes up his habitation. Thirty-one Washingtons, twenty-two Madisons, twenty-three Osklands, sixteen Lincolns, twenty-one Columbias, even ten Bostons, prove his lack of originality in this particular field.

When, therefore, one of these cities—in spite of the fact that there are fully a score of other cities of the same name—puts out a trade organ or a prospectus without qualifying the city name with any state address, it sometimes proves rather difficult to determine just which of the multitudinous Columbias, Lincolns, or Osklands is referred to by the publication.—Town Development Magazine.

JUVENILE DELINQUENCY.

Judge of Buffalo's Children's Court Scores the Railways.

Sixteen lines of steam railway enter the city of Buffalo, completely encircling it, writes Judge George E. Judge of the children's court, Buffalo, N. Y., in the American City. There are 725 miles of railway track within the city limits. In some of the railroad yards we find eighteen to twenty tracks and standing upon these tracks miles and miles of cars loaded with every conceivable article of merchandise. To protect this property a few railway police are employed. These men work long hours and receive small pay. Our newspapers frequently inform us that some of these railroad police are themselves arrested and convicted of burglarizing cars.

Thirty per cent of the boys appearing in our children's court in 1913 were charged with offenses against railroad property. The cost to the state of New York and county of Erie of caring for boys convicted for crimes against railroad property and sentenced to institutions from Buffalo was $11,000. Offenses of this character will increase year by year until the railroad property is properly protected, and this neglect on the part of the railroads will continue to be responsible for making criminals. Leaving out the cost in money to our state, the saving of these valuable lives by removing the temptations which cause boys as well as adults to become criminals is worth more than can be computed in dollars and cents. It is a common sight in our railroad yards to see dozens of women and children, sometimes on moving trains, throwing off coal or walking alongside of the tracks, gathering up coal which has fallen or has been thrown from the cars. These women are often the judge finds that they have families of children dependent upon them for care.

If the railroads would wall in their yards and station watchmen at the necessary openings the greatest contributing factor to juvenile delinquency would be removed and the number of criminals in all of the railroad centers of this country greatly lessened.

Utility in City Plan.

Many cities have been built on more or less idealized plans, and, while in some cases the result has been pleasing, from an aesthetic point of view the tendency has been to pay too little consideration to individuality and, if any, to practical considerations and industrial developments.

The utility of the city, as distinguished from its beautification, demands a greater degree of attention than has been accorded it, and the response to this demand by German cities has been largely responsible for their progress.

AGRICULTURE AND WAR.

When millions of men are turned away from the production of commodities there must be a scarcity which will benefit producers in peaceful nations just as long as those at war have money wherewith to buy.

But these millions of men have been changed from producers of wealth into destroyers of it. The end of all such waste is poverty, inability to buy and consequent loss of trade between nations. Destroying crops, interrupting industry, ruining cities, tearing up railroads and sinking ships never added a dollar to the wealth of the world. War has, of course, brought about some developments and advances in commerce; it has established some rights and dethroned some wrongs, but it has never enriched the world and never will.

Agriculture will reap more of the temporary profits of European war than any other industry. The nations must eat, whether they work or fight, and they must look to this country for bread and meat. But our consumers must eat also; they must pay more for their necessities and charge more for what they make and sell, so the advance in prices resulting from war is not net profit at any time to producers. When our farmers receive war prices for what they sell they must also pay war prices for what they buy. Prices for breadstuffs, meats, horses, wool and cotton naturally respond first to the stimulus of war.—National Stockman and Farmer.

CRIMSON CLOVER SEED.

Poor Germination is Indicated by a Brownish Color.

Since Nov. 1, 1913, there have been imported into the United States 3,329,853 pounds of crimson clover seed. This seed comes mostly from France and Austria, where the harvest season is practically the same as in this country. The time for sowing follows the harvest season so closely that only a part of the imported seed is received in time to be sown the year it is raised. If the conditions of storage are not the best the seed may lose materially in vitality between the time of harvest and that of sowing the next year.

New seed of good quality is free from any brownish color, but old seed shows varying degrees of brown according to age and conditions under which it has been stored. The brownish color is an indication of poor germination; the darker the color the poorer the germination. Seed which shows a slight brownish color should be tested for germination before sowing, and no brown seed should be used unless a germination test shows it will grow well.

Germination tests of the 119 lots of crimson clover seed imported in the last eight months show an average of 80 per cent of live seeds. The germination varied from 40 per cent for the poorest lot to 97 per cent for the best lot. As crimson clover seed loses its vitality rapidly and as practically all the imported seed is one year old before sowing, an effort should be made to save domestic seed wherever possible. This is especially true of seed for local or home use, where it can be seeded without thrashing or cleaning.

A Handy Corn Sheller.

A very handy device for shelling corn, and especially popcorn, can be made of a one inch board on which is fastened a piece of metal lath. The edges of the metal lath are bound with a strip of wood nailed to the board.

MARKET GARDENING.

Success in the growing of vegetables depends more upon the supply of soil moisture than on the amount and character of plant food which the soil may contain. This fact is not disputed by men of experience and training. The most liberal applications of the various elements of plant food may be made, but a shortage of soil moisture invariably limits production.

A soil expert of the United States department of agriculture claims that soil moisture is 80 per cent of the points which count for successful production. This is certainly placing a very high value on one of the factors which influence yields. There is absolutely no doubt, however, regarding the truthfulness of the statement. And the assertion is especially true in regard to the growing of garden crops.

Most market gardeners depend upon the supply of soil moisture and upon tillage operations to control soil moisture. Both factors are exceedingly important. Soils which are well charged with humus or decaying organic matter usually contain enough moisture to grow good crops of vegetables provided the soil is properly tilled.

Rye is one of the best cover crops for vegetable growers. It grows well in all types of soil. It often thrives under adverse conditions. It is easily tilled and may be sown quite late in the fall.—National Stockman and Farmer.

A Friend Well Defined.

A friend is a person who is “for you” always and under any circumstances. He never investigates you. When charges are made against you he does not ask proof. He tells the accuser to clear out. He likes you just as you are. What ever kind of a coat you wear suits him. Whether you have on a dress suit or a hickory shirt with no collar, he thinks it fine. He likes your moods and enjoys your pessimism as much as your optimism. He likes your success and your failure endears you to him the more. He is better than a lover because he is never jealous. He wants nothing from you except that you be yourself. He is the one being with whom you can feel safe. With him you can utter your heart, its goodness and its badness. You don't have to be careful.

There are many faithful wives and husbands; there are few faithful friends. Friendship is the most admirable, amazing and rare article among man beings. Anybody stands by you when you are right; a friend stands by you even when you are wrong. The highest known form of friendship is that of a dog to his master.

You are in luck if you can find one man or woman on earth with that kind of affection for you and fidelity to you. Like the shade of a great tree in the noonday heat is a friend. Like the home port, with your country's flag flying after long journeys, is a friend.

A friend is an impregnable citadel; a refuge in the strife of existence. It is he who keeps alive your faith in human nature, that makes you believe it is a universe. He is the antidote to despair, the elixir of hope, the tonic of depression, the medicine to cure suicide. When you are vigorous and spirited you like to take your pleasure with him; when you are in trouble you want to tell him; when you are dying you want him near. You give him without reluctance and borrow from him without embarrassment. If you live 50 years and find one absolute friend you are more than fortunate.

Dianthaea Quickly Cured.

The Secretary of State And The President.

“I am glad to speak for the President at this time,” said Mr. Bryan, at the Star-Spangled Banner celebration in Baltimore, after paying a personal tribute to the Chief Magistrate's singleness of purpose, because he is a President who strives for peace. In this time of strife the President, had it been possible, would have been glad to come here and speak personally for the principle.

“I am glad to have a President who will not allow the nation to be drawn into the vortex of war. He is not fearful that patriotism is lacking. He knows that if a million men were needed he could issue his call at sunrise and have the men at sundown. He knows that he would have the service of those who wore the Blue and of those who wore the Grey; that he would not only have the support of those of his own political faith, but of all citizens.”

For a moment Mr. Bryan dwelt on the Mexican policy of the administration, saying:

“Some of our people seemed to doubt the wisdom of ‘watchful waiting,’ and some were inclined to use the term as one of ridicule. But times have changed mightily in the last few weeks and now there are none who speak of that policy in other than terms of respect.”

ENDORSED AT HOME

Such Proofs As This Should Convince Any Richmond Citizen.

The public endorsement of a local citizen is the best proof that can be produced. None better, none stronger can be had. When a man comes forward and testifies to his fellow-citizens, addresses his friends and neighbors, you may be sure he is thoroughly convinced or he would not do so. Telling one's experience when it is for the public good is an act of kindness that should be appreciated. The following statement given by a resident of Richmond adds one more to the many cases of Home Endorsement which are being published about Doan's Kidney Pills. Read it.

Mrs. Pearl Boen, 109 Hallie Irvine street, Richmond, Ky., says: “My back ached and my kidneys were disordered. At times I was nervous and didn't sleep well. I felt little like getting about, in fact, I was miserable in every way until I used Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Middleton's Drug Store. I began to feel fine immediately after I commenced taking them and their continued use made me better in every way.”

The Liberty Bell.

Here are some things about the Liberty Bell it would be well to cut out and paste in your scrap book:

July 4, 1776, the bell was rung for the Proclamation of the Declaration of Independence.

October 24, 1781, the bell rang out for the surrender of Cornwallis.

April 16, 1783, it rang out for the proclamation of peace.

September 29, 1821, it rang to welcome Lafayette to the Hall of Independence.

July 4, 1836, it ushered in the Year of Jubilee, the 50th anniversary of the Republic.

July 24, 1826, it tolled for the death of Thomas Jefferson.

July 4, 1831, is the last recorded ringing of this famous bell to commemorate the Day of Independence.

February 22, 1832, is the last recorded ringing to commemorate the birth of Washington.

In the same year it tolled the death of the last survivor of the signers of the Declaration—Charles Carroll, of Carrollton.

July 2, 1834, it tolled once more. Lafayette was dead.

July 8, 1835, while being tolled for the death of Chief Justice John Marshall, a crack was developed, starting from the rim and inclining in a right hand direction toward the crown.

Another attempt was made to ring it on Washington's birthday, February 22, 1843, but the fracture was so much increased that no attempt has ever been made to ring it since. Its voice is now silent and yet it will ring in the hearts of all patriotic people so long as the name of liberty shall last.—Leaves of Light.
